How might the tempo of the music affect the audience's experience of the trailer?	The fast tempo music might make the experience exciting and engage the audience to keep enjoying the trailer.
How might the dynamics of the music influence the audience's understanding of what is happening in the trailer?	The dynamics start soft and grow to become louder throughout the piece (pianissimo – mezzo-forte) This helps to set the mood and might make the audience feel that something unexpected and/or interesting might happen in the film.
Is there a single type of instrument or multiple instruments included in the piece?	The piece begins with chords played on a piano. The audience has the opportunity to experience that particular sound. Then, the music builds by including other instruments playing different parts (i.e strings, vocals and percussion). This adds excitement and movement in the piece.
