Savinder is sitting at their desk, scrolling through social media on their laptop. Clara enters, looking over Savinder's shoulder.

Savinder: (excitedly) Hey, Clara! What are you up to?

Clara: Oh, just checking out some posts. Did you see this article about online safety?

Savinder: (glancing at the screen) Nah, I haven't. But who cares about that stuff? I just go with the flow online.

Clara: (concerned) Savinder, it's important to be cautious. You never know who might be lurking online.

Savinder: (rolling her eyes) Come on, Clara. It's not like I'm sharing my whole life story with strangers.

Clara: (sighs) I know, but even small things can add up. Like, do you use different passwords for all your accounts?

Savinder: Um, no. Why bother? I just use the same one for everything.

Clara: Maya, that's risky! If someone hacks one of your accounts, they could access all your personal information.

Savinder: (thoughtfully) I guess I never thought about it like that. But what about online communication? I mean, I just say what's on my mind.

Clara: That's great, but we also need to be mindful of how our words can affect others. Remember the golden rule: treat others how you want to be treated.

Savinder: (nodding) Yeah, I get it. Like that time when I made that snarky comment on someone's post, and it turned into a whole drama.

Clara: Exactly. It's easy for things to get blown out of proportion online. We need to think before we post and consider how our words might impact others.

Savinder: (reflectively) You're right, Clara. I need to be more careful about my online identity and communication.

Clara: (smiling) Don't worry, Savinder. We're all learning as we go. Just remember to stay safe and respectful online.

Savinder: (grinning) Thanks, Clara. I'll keep that in mind. Now, let's binge-watch some cat videos!

Clara: (laughs) Sounds like a plan.

They both turn back to the laptop, sharing a laugh as they continue their online adventures together.
