

Seasonal Scientist Activity

Seasonal Scientist

Create four images of how you think the same tree would appear like in all 4 seasons. Include some words to describe your images.

You can also try this activity throughout the seasons, if possible. Draw your tree in the fall, again in the winter, again in the spring and again in the summer. This investigation works well if you start in September, but you can start any time! Keep your drawing aside and decide when to add another season!
